

Why not become your church's Eco Friend and join with others on their Eco Church journeys?

We're hoping to build up a network of Eco Friends across the Synod so that we can help and encourage each other as we care for God's creation, tackle climate change and protect nature.

Could you be your church's Eco Friend?

- be the hopeful and persistent voice for creation care and climate justice within your church
- gather a small team to work alongside you
- engage with young people in your congregation: listen to their concerns and ideas
- open up intergenerational conversations around green issues
- invite different groups to lead worship setting Eco Church and the environment at the heart of church services
- encourage discussions on how to reduce your church's carbon footprint
- engage with other local churches and groups
- consider approaching your MP and MS about environmental issues
- register your church on A Rocha's Eco Church scheme
- share your concerns, ideas and actions with others in your community

Please consider becoming an Eco Friend ...

Eileen Newington, the Synod Green Advocate, will be pleased to talk to you, to offer support and to keep in contact:

greenadvocate.urcwailes@urc.org.uk